

Composition of the Individual Monitoring Committee

The CSI for PSIME is made up of at least two members independent of the direction of the doctoral student's work AND of the thesis research project. Its minimum constitution is as follows*:

- a member who may belong to the doctoral student's host laboratory, but not to the same team.
- a member from outside the doctoral student's host laboratory.

At least one of them is an academic (teacher-researcher or researcher), holder of the HDR. One of the two members must know the scientific field of the thesis subject well, while the other may be very far from it. In addition, the ED recommends that the doctoral student initiates the proposal of at least one of the members, and that at least one of them be located near the doctoral student's host laboratory to facilitate the face-to-face contact. Members of the CSI can be part of the thesis jury but cannot be rapporteurs.
